Clara Wagner

Words & Music by Charlie Maguire

Dedicated to Christine Sommer Simmons author of "American Motorcycle Girls"

It's a wet and rough-out road in Indiana
Where rain is in session and mud is the governor
Two-day motorcycle racing weather
Around the curve comes Clara Wagner

-CHORUS-

Say...Hello!
To the rhythm of the road!
Your Daddy runs a bike shop
You don't want to stop
You just want to go!
Say... Hello!
To the rhythm of the road!
The pride in your eyes
Reflect the skies
Over the places you'll go

-ADDITIONAL VERSES-

Half-the-nation-in-1910, is in the kitchen
Scrubbing celluloid collars and having a ball
What brings them to their windows is your engine
Saying, "There goes the first-woman-rider of them all!"

Miles from Chicago on your eyelids
Blinking out the danger since yesterday
That could lay you down just short of Indianapolis
Three-hundred-and-sixty miles away

The fields and the farms are framed with fences
To keep all and everything close by
But Clara and her Wagner "411"
She just left all of that behind
